Reflective practice: models of reflection

Reflection is the process of making sense of an experience in order to learn and improve as a practitioner. 1 Often, we reflect as part of our everyday practice without being aware that we are doing it – for example, on the way home from work. Using reflection within health and social care has benefits for patients and the profession. In order to do this effectively, reflection involves describing, analysing and evaluating experiences from practice in a way that helps you make sense of it.

Practice Reflection - CNO

Reflective practice is, in its simplest form, thinking about or reflecting on what you do. It is closely linked to the concept of learning from experience, in that you think about what you did, and what happened, and decide from that what you would do differently next time. Thinking about what has happened is part of being human.

Reflective Practice | SkillsYouNeed

'Reflective Practice' is a process by which you: stop and think about your practice, consciously analyse your decision making and draw on theory and relate it to what you do in practice. Critical analysis and evaluation refocuses your thinking on your existing knowledge and helps generate your actions, behaviour, treatments and learning needs.

A CRITICAL REFLECTION ON REFLECTIVE PRACTICE

Reflective practice is a fundamental component of continuing professional development and is required by all regulatory bodies of healthcare professionals in order to retain registration (Atwal & Jones, 2009).
