Every Shakespeare play has a moral, and perhaps one moral to take from Macbeth is "watch out what you wish for." Perhaps Macbeth's own lines signify the essence of ill-gotten ambition which turns into nothing but his demise, "Life's but a walking shadow, a poor player/ That struts and frets his hour upon the stage/And then is heard no more."

Macbeth: Entire Play - William Shakespeare

The first person to claim that the body of Shakespeare's last will and testament was written in Shakespeare's own handwriting was John Cordy Jeaffreson, who compared the letters in the will and in the signature, and then expressed his findings in a letter to Athenaeum (1882). He suggests that the will was intended to be a rough draft, and that the progressively deteriorating script indicates an enfeebling illness, an illness which may have caused the " rough draft " to become the will itself.
