Pentax P30 Description The P30 is a 35 mm camera which must have been made in the mid 1980 ' s. The example I have is fitted with a 50mm F1.7 lens which attaches to the body with a K-mount bayonet connection. This is the same type of connection (now with enhancements) that my K-5 has, and I can fit the lens onto the K5.

The Pentax P30 came out in 1985 making this one of the last manual focus single lens reflexes 35mm film cameras produced. It has both program and manual exposure modes. You will need one of the newer Pentax-A lenses to get program auto exposure. The Pentax-A lenses have a small button on the aperture ring to lock them in the Auto Exposure setting.

The P30 series of cameras is probably THE bargain of 35mm manual focus SLRs. Solid, compact, reliable, competent, extremely cheap - they have everything you really need in a film camera. The viewfinder is extremely good, very similar in size and brightness to the ME Super. The ugly shutter sound is a minor annoyance.

The Pentax P30 series (P3 in the US) is often not at the top of the SLR shopper ' s list. The Pentax P30t is not a groundbreaking camera, by any means. It ' s a weird 90 ' s in-between of the earlier, all-metal manual focusing film cameras of the 70s & 80s and the newer, plasticky auto-focus ones that started popping up in the early 2000s. The P30t is manual focusing with either aperture priority or fully manual modes.
