tangible in 2013 than it was in 2012. Unemployment will fall, albeit rather slowly and with a southern bias. The amount of spare capacity in the economy will mean that inflation falls below 2% in 2013, and heads on downwards to around 1.5% through 2014 and 2015. This will be combined with the beginnings of real earnings growth,

Q1 2013 The year started on a positive note as the continuation of loose monetary policy and a last minute resolution to the so called US "fiscal cliff" led to an increase in investor appetite, driving risk assets higher. US economic data surprised to the upside, with bullish employment statistics and evidence that consumer

Peer Review Bias: A Critical Review - ScienceDirect

Review authors need to do more than just state quality-related data that was extracted. The implication of this data on a review's findings must be addressed. For example, just because review authors list sample sizes of the primary studies does not mean they have assessed study sample.
