Small Details You Missed In Umbrella Academy Season 2 Spider Sparrow

Spider Sparrow has always been different. Abandoned as an infant in a lambing pen and adopted by a kindly shepherd and his wife, Spider's life is unusual from the start. As he grows, it becomes clear that he is not like other children: he can't walk, talk, or learn like them. But Spider has a gift: he can imitate perfectly the sounds of animals.

Spider Sparrow by Dick King-Smith - Goodreads
Spider Sparrow has always been different from other children. He can't walk like them, he can't talk like them, he can't learn like them. But Spider has a very special gift: He can perfectly imitate the sounds of animals, drawing them to him, soothing them. Spider amazes himself when he uses his gift to hand-feed a fox.

The Spider and the Sparrow. It had long been considered that there was never a day more rational than Tuesday and never a man more suited to the perpetual inhabitation of Tuesdays than the Kings third son. Thus when the old King reached the conclusion that it was time to negotiate a treaty with a neighbouring kingdom particularly proficient with maps; it was only rational that he would send his third son, armed with a small hunting knife and a compass, off through the dark wood the next . . .

winner from Dick King-Smith, author of Babe: The Gallant Pig and a slew of others. But here, instead of animals as central characters, the hero is an orphaned infant boy left among the baby lambs on an estate farm in England. The child is adopted by the shepherd and his wife, Tom and Kathie Sparrow, a poor childless couple who call their new son Spider because of the strange way he learns to crawl using his hands and legs.
