The View from Saturday Summary. Curtains up on the big day. After a tense series of competitions, the Epiphany Middle School has made it all the way to the final round of the New York State Academic Bowl. Their team: a group of misfit sixth-graders from Epiphany Middle School. Their opponents: eighth-grade all-stars whom we can practically see as big, mean, and smart—at least, smart in the Jeopardy! kind of way.

Konigsburg writes The View From Saturday in shifting points of view. The third person omniscient viewpoint is used to relate the thoughts and feelings of all the characters. The third person limited omniscient viewpoint focuses on, and is limited to, Mrs. Olinski's thoughts and feelings. Finally, Konigsburg uses the first person point of view to allow each protagonist to relate his or her thoughts and feelings as they tell their story.
